Making Sense Of The Nuclear Power Maze

THE PROGRAM

PM DIMENSIONS has long recognized the growing need for nuclear power in developing countries and have actively worked with organizations to help position services in the nuclear industry value chain. In addition PM DIMENSIONS is actively involved in providing training for nuclear engineering.

As a natural progression PM DIMENSIONS has now launched its Nuclear Executive Research Program which offers the convenience of a single source of knowledge, one-to-one counsel, personalized service and the assurance of PM DIMENSIONS' objectivity and information assets. This is all presented in a program available only to senior management of companies involved in the nuclear industry and designed to make their jobs so much easier.

Rather than trying to read and attend everything in a vain attempt to stay current, this service satisfies any research requirement. Better still, answers are found and tailored to your own context. This service offers reports and research specifically and exclusively for the senior manager. The Nuclear Executive Research Program also offers member-only events, providing access to some of the finest practitioners and leaders in the industry.
